First, the residents in the area will be allowed to use the university facilities for free. Universities normally own a very large campus. So accordingly, students will be able to use this area to go for walks or for exercise. Also, universities tend to have regulations so that residents around campus may feel free to use their libraries or sports facilities. This becomes a good opportunity for people who like reading books from diverse fields because university libraries hold various types of books. As a result,

In addition, the construction of a new university in the neighborhood will be helpful in making the neighborhood known to other people. If the graduates of the university have a high employment rate, naturally people will learn about it should that be through the news or through acquaintances. Through this, the university and the neighborhood will become famous. Once the university's fame reaches its peak, people from other areas will begin to move into the neighborhood where the university is located. Accordingly, the government will increase their funding and support for our neighborhood and the residents by establishing more facilities for the residents. Therefore,
