The queen could not satisfy herself no matter how she teased them, so while her husband went away to another country because of his affairs, she sent Emily to the poor countryside and turned the princes into eagles with her magical powers. The princes who were turned into eagles fled the palace and flew into the forest.

Princess Emily returned to the palace when she turned 15 years old, and the king desired to keep Princess Emily close to him because they had been separated for many years. The queen was very jealous of Princess Emily's beauty, so she turned her into a beggar with magic and sent her out of the palace. Emily made her way to the place the old lady described and waited until sunset. When sunset came, she saw the eagles with golden crowns flying toward her. As darkness came, the eagles turned into princes. "Oh, my brothers!", exclaimed Princess Emily with many tears of joy. "We know you have been through a lot, Emily. We will protect you from now on.", said one of the princes. The princes began to weave a strong net made out of bark. Morning came and the princes turned into eagles again. They placed Emily on the net and took her high up into the sky. Finally, they arrived at their destination, and Princess Emily and the princes stayed in a large cave. After a few days, Princess Emily dreamt of a cute and small fairy telling her how to break the spell on the princes. "If you make nine chain armors with thread made of grass and throw them to the eagles, the spell will be broken. However, you cannot speak while making the armors. If you do, you and your brothers will die.", said the fairy. Princess Emily woke up and headed outside. She spotted a large grass bush right in front of the cave. "I will save you, my brothers.", said Princess Emily and she began to make the armors from that day on. Her skin burned when nettles brushed against her skin, and she got blisters all over her hands and feet. The princes shed tears as they saw the princess making clothes out of nettles that were ruining her hands and feet. Princess Emily did not stop making the chain armors inside the cave.

One day, as the king was hunting in the forest, he ran into Princess Emily. "Oh, my daughter! I missed you very much! Let's head back home!", said the king. The king took the Princess back to the palace in a carriage. Although she was worried about her brothers, Princess Emily decided to return home with her father. The king was confused when he saw that Princess Emily kept making the chain armors without a word. A few days later, she ran out of grass before finishing one of the armors. Princess Emily snuck out of the palace late at night and went to a graveyard to get more nettles.

However, she did not stop weaving the chain armors. When she arrived, nine eagles flew in and surrounded the wagon. At that moment, Princess Emily finished the last chain armor and quickly threw them to the eagles. As soon as she threw them, the eagles turned back into the nine princes. The spell had been broken. All the people were amazed. "My sons...! What has happened here?", asked the king. "Father! Princess Emily is not the witch! The queen is!", said one of the princes. The princes explained to the king everything that had happened, and the king ordered the queen to be banished. The king took Princess Emily and the princes back to the palace and lived happily ever after.
