Usually, all the animals are healthy but sometimes the animals get sick. This is what seemed to happen to a family of otters at a zoo.

After seeing this behavior for two weeks, the zoo decided to bring in an animal doctor. Sick animals are treated by a special animal doctor called vet.

The vet, Dr. Irene Sanders, visited the zoo and examined each of the four otters. “That’s odd,” said Dr. Sanders scratching his head.

Dr. Sanders assured the zookeeper that the otters were in excellent health. Although Mr. Oakes did not understand why the otters were so unhappy, he thought that the otters would feel better as time passed.

One day, Mr. Oakes was walking near the otter’s cage when he saw kids from a nearby kindergarten looking at the animals. One little girl had a puzzled look on her face as if something was wrong.

Later that day, zoo staff installed an artificial water tank that resembled a small brook. The staff also threw fish into the water for the otters to catch. From that day on, that family of four otters was very happy.
